

Clemens Freunschlag

Everyone tells me you're such a handsome lad,
but you're a drinker!

How I experienced living with my grandmother with dementia - and other drastic events.

© 2024 by Clemens Freunschlag
1st edition

Author: Clemens Freunschlag
Illustration: Creative Fabrica
Cover design, typesetting: Stephan Jeff Ohorn
Photos © Clemens Freunschlag
Editing, proofreading: Anja Nicholson

Printing and distribution on behalf of Clemens Freunschlag:
Buchschieme from Dataform Media GmbH, Vienna
www.buchschieme.at

ISBN Hardcover: 978-3-99165-596-1
ISBN E-Book: 978-3-99165-597-8

This work, including its parts, is protected by copyright.
Any use is not permitted without the author's consent.
This applies in particular to electronic or other reproduction,
translation, distribution and making available to the public.

*The ones we love
are only borrowed.*

We don't decide when they leave.

We decide whether we want to accept the memory as a gift.

Contents

Illness, death and grief – topics that should be talked about early on in childhood. Foreword	11
My personal, very emotional celebration, two and a half years free of alcohol. A somewhat different dialog	15
To me, being intoxicated was life-sustaining.	19
In a golden cage.	31
Dementia, it sets the scene: Grandma’s talking to the washing machine.	33
Five numbers.	49
Epilogue	55

